

END-USER LICENCE

IMPORTANT - READ THESE TERMS AND CONDITIONS CAREFULLY BEFORE USING OR COPYING THE PRODUCTS PLACED AT YOUR DISPOSAL THROUGH THIS LICENCE. BY USING THE PRODUCTS YOU ACCEPT THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THIS LICENSING AGREEMENT. IF YOU DO NOT ACCEPT THE TERMS OF THE LICENSING AGREEMENT AND DO NOT WISH TO BE BOUND BY THEM, YOU MAY NOT USE THE PRODUCT.

1. Licence

On condition that you pay the agreed licence fees and abide by the terms and conditions stated in this Licensing Agreement (the "Licensing Agreement") and in any paramount purchase or delivery agreement, Standard Online AS ("Standard Online") hereby grants you a non-exclusive, non-transferable right of use of the product(s) that accompany the Licensing Agreement ("the Product"). The right of use is restricted in the following manner:

- a. The Licensing Agreement does not give you property or other rights to the Product, but only a limited right to use the Product pursuant to the provisions of the Licensing Agreement. This right of use may be unilaterally revoked by Standard Online if you are in breach of the provisions of the Licensing Agreement.
- b. If the Product is supplied in paper form, you are entitled to use the copy of the Product supplied with this licensing agreement. You are not entitled to modify, alter, translate, combine, rent or lease out, sell, re-license or otherwise transfer the Product, wholly or in part. Nor may you remove or alter any information on copyright and property right to be found on the Product.
- c. If the Product is supplied in electronic form as a Single User version, you are entitled to install 1 (one) copy of the Product, and have permission to access it from 1 (one) computer - which is owned, leased or controlled by you - at a time. If the computer becomes unusable and you cannot access the Product therefrom, you are entitled to move the Product to another computer, provided that you remove the Product from the first computer and that the running of the Product on the replacement computer is done in conformity with the provisions of the Licensing Agreement. You may make 1 (one) paper copy of the Product for personal use, and a backup copy in a machine-readable form. The Product may not be run on two or more computers at the same time, or on a network.
- d. If the Product is supplied in an electronic form as part of a Multi-user version, Sub-clause c) above will have corresponding application for the number of users defined in the delivery agreement between you and Standard Online.
- e. You are not entitled to modify, alter, translate, combine, rent or lease out, sell, re-license or otherwise transfer the Product, wholly or in part. Nor may you remove or alter any information on copyright and property right to be found on the Product.

- f. You understand and accept that the Product belongs to the copyright-holder named on the Product ("the Copyright-Holder"), and that the Product is protected by Norwegian and international copyright legislation. You also understand and accept that all copyright and other intellectual property rights to the Product belong to the Copyright-Holder.
- g. You are responsible for giving Standard Online, or such person as designated by Standard Online, all information necessary for complying with the Licensing Agreement. If you are in breach the Licensing Agreement due to circumstances beyond your control, you hereby undertake to collaborate with Standard Online with the object of re-establishing compliance with the Licensing Agreement.

2. Limited warranty

- a. Standard Online hereby warrants you (and only you) that Standard Online and the Copyright-Holder, unless otherwise stated on the Product, may license the Product and all copyright and use of the trademarks belonging to the Product.
- b. This warranty is the only warranty made for the Product. Neither Standard Online nor the Copyright-Holder extend any warranty whatsoever over and above this for the Product, its reliability, sufficiency, use or the information or purposes that the Product contains and/or reflects. Standard Online and the Copyright-Holder disclaim all warranties, both express and implied, with regard to functionality and suitability for the envisaged use. This disclaimer may not be restricted by Standard Online, the Copyright-Holder or their representatives.

3. Liability in damages

Standard Online, the Copyright-Holder and their representatives, ("Parties entitled to recover damages") are not liable vis-à-vis you, and you undertake to indemnify all Parties entitled to recover damages from all claims and costs (including costs of legal assistance) that can be attributed to personal injury or property damage, product liability, or other claims based on your, your employees' or your agents' use of the Product.

4. Limitation of liability

- a. You understand and accept that the obligations that Standard Online and/or the Copyright-Holder have to you as regards the Product, are exclusively governed by this Licensing Agreement in addition to any paramount delivery agreement. You yourself are liable for the consequences of the use of the Product, whether or not this use is in conformity with the provisions of the Licensing Agreement. Even if Standard Online and/or the Copyright-Holder was aware of the risk of this, neither Standard Online nor the Copyright-Holder shall be liable for either indirect loss and costs or direct loss that may affect you, your employees, your agents or third parties.

- b. If, in the opinion of Standard Online and/or the Copyright-Holder, there exists a risk that claims may be brought because of the Product in respect of persistent violation of third-party intellectual property rights, Standard Online shall be entitled at its own expense to (i) facilitate a right for you to continue using the Product, (ii) amend or replace the Product or parts thereof with another product with a view to avoiding such claims, or (iii) halt your application of the Product and repay the licence fees you have paid.
- c. Standard Online shall not be liable vis-à-vis you for claims that would have been avoided if you had accepted a replacement product in accordance with the foregoing provisions in this Sub-clause 4 (b) or if the use of the Product had been interrupted. In all circumstances the total liability in damages to you of Standard Online and/or the Copyright-Holder shall not exceed a sum corresponding to the licence fee you have paid under this Licensing Agreement for the Product to which the loss is attributed.
- d. Sub-clause 4(b) governs completely and exhaustively the liability in damages of Standard and the Copyright-Holder as regards infringements of rights or alleged infringements of rights through the use of the Product.

5. Validity and termination of the Agreement

This Agreement shall apply until further notice. You are entitled to terminate the Licensing Agreement at any time, if applicable in conformity with the signed delivery agreement. Standard Online and/or the Copyright-Holder may terminate the Licensing Agreement if you are in breach of the Licensing Agreement. When the Licensing Agreement ceases, you hereby undertake immediately to desist from using the Product and to destroy all copies thereof.

If the Product is supplied as a Multi-user version, in that it is made available to you on Standard Online's extranet, future use of the Product shall be governed by a separate agreement that shall be based, in principle, on your being given access to one copy of the Product as it was at the time of the ending of the agreement.

6. Conflicts

Disputes regarding the content or implementation of the Agreement shall if possible be resolved through negotiations. If the negotiations are unsuccessful, each party may demand that the matter be decided under Norwegian law and with agreed legal venue at Asker og Bærum District Court.

7. Other provisions

This Licensing Agreement governs in total what has been agreed between the parties as regards the use of the Product. Amendments to the Licensing Agreement may only be made through a specially signed supplement to this Agreement. Should any provision of the Licensing Agreement be declared invalid for any reason, the Licensing agreement shall be revised only as far as required to make it valid, and such revision shall (i) not affect the validity of the quashed part under other circumstances or (ii) affect other parts of the Licensing Agreement.

8. Export

You are not entitled to export or re-export the Product or parts thereof, appurtenant information or technology in conflict with current Norwegian law and other applicable export legislation.